Posing

Silas Wickes aka Ol' Turnip Head is an undead lich with the power to resurrect the dead, mostly victims of his terrors to keep him occupied in his vast cemetery.

In his past life, Silas sold himself (his soul and his body) to return from the dead every year during the autumnal equinox, becoming the undead ghoulish form known as Turnip Head. Some may see it as a curse, but he sees it as ideal.

When he is not busy scaring humans to death, he is in the company of the Spooky Polycule, his network of lovers and their consenting lovers, ranging from vampires to ghosts, with witches and goth girls. They are all friendly and courteous with each other, forming a kitchen-table style non-monogamous polycule.

His skills include:

- Making scary faces to frighten his victims, either to paralysis, death or near-death (D)
- An unearthly howl that could be heard from 5km away (C)
- Necromancy (communicating with ghosts and spirits from the other side, including possession (B))
- Resurrecting the dead as zombies (A)
- Cackling (E)
